Burglars Are Looting Manoa Residences In Melodramatic Manner

The residents of Manoa valley have again been thrown into a state of excitement. Hardly had the residents got their nerves down to a normal pitch after the famous dynamite drama before they were again agitated; this time by the operations of burglars, who, besides departing with their worldly goods for places unknown, show a tendency toward the melodramatic which is very startling. During the past week no less than three residences have been burglarized—that of L. G. Blackman, the particulars of which affair were given by the Bulletin a few days ago; the residence of Dr. Norris, and finally that of the well-known Democratic leader, John Edinger.

The Norris residence was raided yesterday. It had been rented furnished to R. L. Lillie, but he and his wife are both away, and during their absence it was occupied by Mr. Burnett, who is in Lillie's employ.

Yesterday at about 7 o'clock Burnett left the house, returning at about 8:30 p. m. As soon as he entered he found that burglars had been at work. In the hallway a table had been dragged out and placed in the middle of the floor. Around this four chairs had been placed, and on the table on each of the four sides a copy of "The Outlook" had been placed. Finally a clasp knife had been stuck by the point in the center of the table. Burnett picked up the first of the books which came to his hand, and found that it had been opened at an article bearing the title "The Faces of Our Dead." This in conjunction with the knife was, too much for Burnett, and he hurried for assistance.

He returned with two neighbors, Gates and Lyons, and the three men went through the house. They found that the burglars had effected an entrance through the bathroom window, as was the case in the Blackman robbery, and had left by the kitchen door, which they had left wide open.

It is the opinion of Burnett that the burglars spent the better part of the day in the house. Everything had been ransacked, boxes, and trunks had been broken and their contents emptied in confusion on the floor. Pocketbooks and bags, which it would have been easy to open, had

$2500 FLEET BALANCE LEFT

Committee Finds It Has Large Surplus
On Hand

After the Fleet bills have been paid there will be a balance of $2500 remaining in the coffers of the Fleet Committee. This was the statement made by Chairman George R. Carter of the Executive Committee which met this afternoon.

Chairman A. L. C. Atkinson of the Sports Committee reported that there remained in his hands a cash balance of $511.65, after the bills had been met. He was originally allowed an appropriation of $3600.

Chairman Waldron of the Entertainment Committee reported that the dancing-floor at the Seaside had been sold for $690. Fred. MacFarlane was the purchaser.

W. C. Weedon reported that bedding and mosquito nets had been stored away in good order. He was authorized to dispose of them by sale.

The acts of the chairmen of the Press and Information Committees were approved. In their reports they showed balances from their appropriations.

For the Transportation Committee, Chairman Richardson reported that everything had been managed to the satisfaction of the sailors.

The only matter that had been brought to the attention of the Arbitration Committee was that of buggy hire. The horse that was rented to the sailors was not to their liking. They had paid $2.50 but when they found out the pilikia about the horse, they demanded their money returned.

Through the intervention of the committee, the matter was settled and the money refunded.

On motion of Waldron a vote of thanks for the Board of Supervisors and Road Supervisor Cummins were extended for the cleanly condition of the roads during Fleet week.

A draft of $28 was received from Manager Goodale of Wailua, as a donation from employees there. Forty-five dollars was appropriated to meet the expense of McBride's cablegrams, etc., while in San Francisco and $31.65 for stationery needed by the former fleet organization; $3.50 was appropriated for the payment of the bills of the committee on Club and Fraternal organizations, of which H. E. Cooper was chairman.

Present at the meeting were George R. Carter, H. P. Wood, George W. Smith, J. A. McCandless, G. P. Wilder, F. E. Richardson, A. L. C. Atkinson, F. L. Waldron.

Dr. Yano Pinto, who has been visiting his family in Portugal, is at present in France following a special course of diseases of eyes, under the celebrated Drs. Laperonne at the Hotel Dieu, in Paris.

Are After Pinkham For Mayor

The latest candidate for the first mayor of Honolulu is L. E. Pinkham, former president of the Board of Health. His name is being considerably discussed by a number of Hawaiian politicians who intend to support him in case he secures the nomination. The forerunners of different political factions have been feeling the strength of their parties, and during their tour around the island, they found that Pinkham's name was being spoken of as a good man for the place.

So far as the labor party is concerned, it is said that it would endorse Pinkham. Achi was seen; but he simply smiled and said nothing. His lieutenants, who make daily visits of various precincts, said that they would support Pinkham. Whether Pinkham has been seen and has consented to run, no one is able to tell. At any rate in case Pinkham has consented to run, it would make the race very interesting.

It is not certain whether Achi will run for mayor or not. He is laying low, waiting for the outcome of the other candidates.

SENTENCES IN FEDERAL COURT

Three People Sentenced;
Other Cases Set
For Trial

The United States District Court was in session this morning, and Judge Dole sentenced a number of persons on indictments brought in by the Federal Grand Jury. Clem Quinn was assigned by Court as counsel for Sansu, and plea was reserved until Monday, July 27.

In the matter of Kim Moon Sung, the Korean who impersonated a United States Deputy Marshal on Kauai, Judge Dole gave the man, who appears to be well-educated and intelligent, opportunity to say whatever he wished. He had already imposed sentence on Kim Moon Sung, but this was withdrawn until the man had his say. He merely asked that a light sentence be imposed. Judge Dole thereupon gave the same sentence that he had previously imposed—one year in Oahu prison, $500 fine, and pay the costs of the Court.

"Have you any property?" asked the Court.

The Korean replied that he had none.

It was explained to him then that at the expiration of three months after his term had been completed, he could take the poor man's oath and secure his freedom. Five hundred dollars' fine amounted to the same thing as three months' imprisonment.

T. Kinoshita, convicted of illicit distilling, was sentenced to spend seven months in Oahu prison and pay a fine of $600 and the costs of the Court. Miteyasu, who was found guilty of forging his signature to a U. S. money order, was handed out two years at hard labor in Oahu prison and sentenced to pay the costs of the court.

The case of William Reed and Mary Haleson, under a charge of violating the Edmunds Act, was set for August 31 for trial. The case of Tomita and Yuki Koga, under a charge the same as the one above, was continued until next Monday.

The Court then adjourned until Monday, July 27.

Yachtsmen of the trans-Pacific race were the guests of the Commercial Club at luncheon this noon, and before the event was over the race for future years and closer trade relations between Honolulu and the cities of the Coast which the yachts represent were given a first class boost.

There were over thirty guests of the club seated at the large central table which bore as a centerpiece a miniature yacht. The walls of the dining room were decorated with the American and Hawaiian flags and from the ceiling were suspended long lines of signal flags.

President Smith presided as usual, on his right being Commodore Sinclair of the winning yacht and Commodore Wilder of the local club on his left. The remaining tables of the club were well filled with members who had timed their lunch hour so as to honor the visitors.
